

RUMOR ARREST OF 6 GUARDS BLAMED FOR DEATH OF FOUR

Follows in Wake of Announcement Prisoners Were "Roasted Alive"

STORY OF BRUTALITY

Account of Men's Death Obtained From a Surviving Prisoner

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Rumors that six guards allegedly responsible for the deaths of four hunger-strike convict leaders at the Holmesburg County Prison have been arrested today followed in the wake of an announcement by Coroner Charles D. Hersch that the victims were "roasted alive."

The guards, reported responsible for turning on heat in isolation cells where 25 hold-out strikers were placed for punishment, were scheduled to be taken to City Hall headquarters for further questioning.

Rivalling the brutal story of death in the "Black Hole of Calcutta"—to which officials likened the deaths of the four prison strike leaders—the "roasting alive" version of the tragedy was given by Coroner Hersch and Assistant District Attorney John A. Boyle after a full day of questioning of surviving prisoners.

Hersch's account of results of his preliminary investigation charged:

That 25 of the most recalcitrant of the hunger-striking convicts, of whom the four victims were the leaders, were placed in the concrete, box-car-like isolation block Sunday night.

That the men were jammed into 10 cells, each four by nine, by eight feet high, with doors of almost solid steel.

That pie-plate sized windows near the roof of the building were shut tight when the radiators were set going with the temperature 80 degrees outside.

That three men each were placed in cells six and seven in which the four victims were found dead.

That the four leaders died because they were weakened to greater degrees by hunger and exhaustion than their fellows, but that at least three of the others were sent to the prison hospital for treatment after release of the group late Monday.

Revealing that the story of the men's deaths was obtained from Maurice Spitz, the surviving prisoner in the cell with Frank Comodega, 46, and James McQuade, 26, two of the victims, Hersch added that he would seek the arrest of Superintendent William B. Mills, if it was shown that the prisoners were subjected to the heat with his knowledge.

Mills, meantime, asserted:

"For many years I have been in the police business and I stand by my record. There is nothing in this prison that can or will be concealed. If they find anything wrong I am wholly responsible."

Fourteen Killed In Freak Airplane Crash

TOKYO, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Fourteen persons were killed and 200 injured today as the result of a freak airplane accident in which a Japanese aviation school craft collided head-on with a passenger plane over the town of Omohi.

Wreckage of the two planes fell in flames on a factory which was set on fire and burned almost to the ground.

Crews and passengers of both planes were killed by the crash, while many workers in the factory lost their lives or were injured in the blaze.

Aviation World Mourns The Death of Hawkes

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(INS)—The aviation world today mourned one of its pioneers—Lieut. Commander Frank M. Hawkes, 41-year-old international speed pilot, who was killed with sportsman J. Hazard Campbell when their plane struck a high tension wire and crashed at nearby East Aurora last night.

Holder of about 225 air records in United States and Europe at one time, Hawkes whose name was synonymous with speed gave up such daring performances a year ago to concentrate on the "safety and comfort" of flying.

"Enough's enough," commented the speed demon of the skies after two crack-ups. But last night while demonstrating a small low-priced plane for Campbell, Hawkes' spectacular career was ended in a manner he did not fear. Before his record-breaking flight from Glendale, Cal., to New York in 1929, Hawkes told a close friend:

"I expect I'll die in an airplane some day."

Electrical wires and communication lines near air fields were what Hawkes feared most. He regarded them as a constant menace and that menace produced the tragedy that overcame him and Campbell shortly after their tiny Gwinn air left the polo field on the estate of E. H. Rogers.

More Notables Move Into Bucks County

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 24.—The internationally known orchestra leader, Frank Black, who has been a member of Bucks county's new colony of celebrities for two years, has sold his 117-acre estate on the Mechanicsville Road, four miles east of here, to Arthur J. Wieland, head of the extension department of General Motors, it was announced yesterday by J. Carroll Molloy, Doylestown realtor.

Pressure of business in New York and Chicago caused Mr. Black to leave Bucks county reluctantly.

Another new-comer to Bucks county is John Philip Falter, widely-known illustrator, of Larchmont, N. Y., who has purchased the Sidney Hall property of 72 acres between Dublin and Blooming Glen, about a mile from the home of the well known Pearl Buck, author of "The Good Earth."

It is rumored that the newest addition to Bucks county's colony of "well-knowns" will be Janet Gaynor, who has already corresponded with a local realtor about a home in Bucks county.

ONE BRISTOL MOTHER EAGER TO SUPPORT CADETS, BUT DOES NOT HAVE THE MONEY; URGES THOSE WHO HAVE, TO CONTRIBUTE

Writes Committee Saying She Hopes Someone Else Will Give Dollar She Would Gladly Contribute If She Had It—More Letters Endorsing Drive Are Received

"I deeply regret that I cannot give at this time, but sincerely hope I will be able to in the near future," writes a Bristol mother to the committee, handling the campaign for a "Uniform Maintenance Fund of $2500" for the American Legion Cadets.

The letter continues that the author is supported by her son, who has been out of employment since February.

"I sincerely hope someone will give the dollar I would like to give for the boys," concludes the letter.

While this mother who desires so much to aid the cadets' cause is not able to contribute, there are many in Bristol and vicinity who can make a contribution. An urgent appeal is made to those who can, to give at once, so that the drive can be brought to a close at the designated date, August 30th, with the goal reached.

Letters of endorsement follow:

Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, Bristol, Pa.

Mr. C. L. Anderson, Honorary Chairman.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find my check for $20.00 as my contribution toward helping to defray the cost of purchasing new uniforms and equipment for the Junior Bugle Corps.

My wife and myself have had the honor of having two boys and one girl in this fine organization and we surely know the fine work they are doing in our town and community in training these boys and girls in discipline, music and marching.

Our citizens should stand 100% in back of this corps and I feel if everybody will just do their little share this campaign will go over with a bang.

Wishing you and the committee the best of success in an over subscription of the goal you seek, I remain,

Yours very truly,

JOHN H. WICHSE.

Legion Committee:

Yours is a very worthy project and one that has helped put Bristol on the map. It should never be allowed to perish. Good luck for a successful campaign.

E. L. HELWIG.

American Legion Cadets,

Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, Bristol, Pa.

Gentlemen:

I have your letter telling of the campaign you are now running to raise $2,500 for the benefit of the Cadets. I think it is a mighty fine cause and know that since the inception of the idea you have trained many boys and that the training means much in good citizenship building.

My check is enclosed for ten dollars. I wish you lots of luck and do hope that you will reach your goal.

Sincerely,

WALTER W. PITZONKA.

Honorary Chairman,

SOCIAL SECURITY FACTS

How is the New Deal plan of Social Security faring after three years of operation? The answer is to be found in an analysis of the success of the Social Security Act by the American Association for Social Security, Inc., and in the United States Treasury daily statement.

The Treasury's statement of July 11, 1938, shows that up to June 30, 1938, the government of the United States had collected $708,751,980.56 in old age benefit pay-roll taxes. As of the same date $5,431,032.22 had been paid out to beneficiaries but, despite the enormous sum collected and the small sum paid out, the statement shows that in actual cash the government has but $2,243,012. left.

The accounting of the unemployment trust fund, set up by the same Act, shows that as of June 30, 1938, the states of the United States deposited $1,058,220,907 in the United States Treasury as their collections from the workers of the nation. Subsequently, the states withdrew $191,975,000 to pay unemployment claims. Again, despite

He said the only known survivors were one passenger, the radio operator and himself. The other fifteen persons aboard, he said, are missing and were believed to have been drowned or killed by machine gun bullets.

The missing, according to Woods, are his Chinese co-pilot, a steward and 13 passengers, including two women, a young child and an infant baby.

HULMEVILLE CENSUS SHOWS INCREASE

Thirteen More Girls and Boys Are Enumerated As Being of School Age

72 MALES; 69 FEMALES

HULMEVILLE, Aug. 24.—Census figures in the enrollment of girls and boys of school age, over five and under 18 years, in Hulmeville borough, mark a total of 141. This is an increase from 128 between the ages of five and 16 accounted last Summer, according to figures of the enumerator, Miss Erda M. Schatt.

The increase in part is due to the advance in age to 17 for students to be retained in classes.

The 141 on this year's enumeration is divided thus: 72 male and 69 female.

There are shown in the records 12 children in the borough who will be six years of age before September 1st, and seven who will be six years old between that date and February 1st. For admittance to school this term the children must be six years of age by February 1st, it is stated. Fifteen of the group will enter school for the first time in September.

The census also showed there are three illiterates in the borough, and four aliens.

STARTLING, IF TRUE

Can it be possible that one out of every 37 persons in the United States is a criminal?

The assertion that this is true is made by the law enforcement committee of the American Bar Association. It is to be assumed that a body of that standing has not reached its conclusions without calm and careful study.

If it is true, the statement is startling. We have had frequent presentations of figures purporting to show the cost of crime. This committee puts it at fifteen billions a year, with the added comment that "each year it shows an increase." Again it is declared that major crimes are committed at the rate of one in every 22 seconds. As a result, the United States today "has the greatest prison population in relation to total population of any country in the world." The United States is pictured as "a land in which 200,000 citizens will commit murder before they die."

Surely these are statements which should shock us out of our complacency. What is there about the American state of mind which leads to such conditions? Is our individualism to blame? Do we accept indifference to law enforcement too easily, too lightly? And if so, why? Remember, this is not a condition created by those minor offenses of which we are guilty at times. Apparently the basis for the American Bar Association's committee's conclusions are those graver offenses against person or property, those things which do harm to another through some form of force.

And what are we going to do about it? This committee of lawyers does not say. But if now one out of 37 of our population is a criminal and the proportionate rate is increasing, the time is not far away when something will have to be done about it—unless America is to become admittedly the Home of the Criminal.

NOW WE ARE LOST

Unstable are the fixed notions of mankind. Paradoxical as the sentence may seem, still it is the truth, says Beth Wellman, Iowan sociologist. Even the good old IQ, in her opinion, is not so good. The intelligence quotient until today has been to us the yardstick, the ruler the way that psychiatrists have of determining the difference between the smart ones and the dullards. If we have to cast the IQ overboard where are we?

Listen then to Beth Wellman when she says, "Given sufficient time and the right combination of circumstances, children will change in IQ in very large amounts. This is in essence the discovery arising from long time studies of the same children, measured and remeasured, from the pre-school age to college."

The extent of this change may be sufficient, says this researcher, to move a child from average intelligence to the high levels, even to genius. On the other hand, when conditions are unfavorable the same children might be changed "from average intelligence to feeble-mindedness," according to the same authority.

All of this is most unnerving. We appear to have been laboring for years under what now appears to be a misapprehension. Even the good old IQ is no more.

It is a Missouri mother who has this sign to the front gate, "Camp, dates, don't kiss the baby."

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1938,

King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—You seldom hear Dick Powell quoted as a wise-cracker but he got off a good one the other day.

Joan Blondell brought Norman Scott to visit Dick on the "Going Places" set. It was a trophy room in a rich man's home. The walls were covered with antlers.

There were skins on the floors and stuffed animals in glass cases.

Norman Scott took it all in. "Daddy," he said, "this is just like a circus, but where are the clowns?"

"Just wait son," replied Powell. "Walter Catlett and I will be working soon."

It probably will be another month yet before Joan goes back before the camera.

Columbia wanted her for a sequel to "There's Always a Woman", and Joan was anxious to do the picture, but Warners had other plans. Joan's contract has about six months to go. At that time, she'll have to decide whether to stay at the studio where Dick is, or to move somewhere else.

An endless vigil goes on in Hollywood to protect the children of stars from kidnappers. In addition to all other precautions, Barbara Stanwyck has just bought a Great Dane dog as a bodyguard for her six-year-old son, Dion. The dog has been given 50 lessons as training for the post.

Speaking of dogs, Errol Flynn's Arno got his Irish master in trouble at Avalon. Flynn went ashore and Arno promptly started a fight. Masters of both the dogs sailed in to break it up which they eventually did. But a policeman gave Flynn a citation for having a dog in Avalon without a leash.

The topper came when the star appeared in court and the justice turned out to be the owner of the other dog.

Arno's wearing a leash now.

A visitor returning from the "Gunga Din" location reports that Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will write a book called "Exiles in Hollywood."

wood"—about the foreigners who have found jobs and new lives in motion pictures. Don't know how straight this is but, if Doug really plans such a book, he might devote a few pages to a Hindu, Gurdial Singh, working right on the same location with him.

Singh is a graduate of Punjab university, holds a bachelor of arts degree from the College of the Pacific, a Master's degree from the University of Southern California and plans to get his Doctor's degree there and then go to Oxford for further study.

Ironically, he is cast in the picture as a thug.

It was an echo of two tragedies when George Palmer Putnam delivered a painting to Irene Castle. The painting depicts one of the planes that Vernon Castle flew in the war. After his death, one of his buddies sent it to Mrs. Castle. Only a short time before Amelia Earhart's last flight, Mrs. Castle gave the picture to the woman flyer. She made one provision—in case anything ever happened to Miss Earhart, the picture was to be returned to her or to her son, Billy. Now Putnam fulfills this sad duty.

Ouida Bergere (Mrs. Basil Rathbone) is the latest Hollywood personality to enter business. She has bought into a jewelry firm on the Sunset boulevard strip. . . .

One of the gay parties at the Troc included Martha Raye, Dave Rose, Gail Reinhold, Lela Osborn and Bill Hall. Martha tells me she and Rose will be married soon after her divorce is final.

Sept. 25 . . . Helen Mack and Lynn Howard were twoing it again at the House of Murphy . . . ditto for Ann Wigton and Johnny Weissmuller at Maxie Rosenbloom's. Johnny's to have much more dialogue in the new Tarzan picture. . . . Byron Gay, the song writer, is in Catalina finishing a book that will touch on everything from Tin Pan Alley to life at the South Pole with Admiral Byrd. . . . Ruth Pursley, hairdresser to Joan Blondell and Olivia de Havilland, and so pretty herself is safely through an emergency appendix operation at the Cedars of Lebanon.

THE THREE BUDGETEERS

"Oh, dear," sighed the first, "I'm so tired."

I finally found out what I wanted, but I'm worn out."

"It's lovely," sighed the second, "but I paid more than I wanted to."

"It's easy," said the third. "I've been studying the advertisements for days, and I knew where to look for what I wanted power of the written word, have been the ideal of American girlhood, RKO Radio Pictures' dramatization of Louisa M. Alcott's celebrated classic, "Little Women," returns to the Bristol Theatre today.

—and how much I'd have to pay."

Made strictly in accordance with the author's original story, and involving an enormous amount of research work and the employment of a large cast of players, "Little Women" stars Katharine Hepburn as Jo.

Jo's three sisters, are portrayed by Joan Bennett as Amy, Frances Dee as Meg and Jean Parker as Beth. Their suitors, who supply the romance around which the beautiful story revolves, are portrayed by Paul Lukas as Fritz Bhaer, Douglass Montgomery as Laurie and John Davis Lodge as Brooke.

Marmee, the lovable, idealistic mother, is enacted by Spring Byington. The incomparable Edna May Oliver appears as grumpy old Aunt March and Henry Stephenson enacts the role of irascible old Mr. Laurence, whose bark is worse than his bite, and whose heart is as big as all outdoors.

GRAND

Jealousy, with its ever attendant romance, fear, and conflict, is the keynote of "Wives Under Suspicion," Universal drama which comes to the Grand Theatre today.

Directed by James Whale, the film introduces an all star cast headed by Gail Patrick and Warren William.

A relentless district attorney who has become nearly dehumanized in his driving effort to obtain convictions at any price. A wife, whose love slowly turns to hate when she realizes that her mate is rapidly losing the fine qualities that first attracted her to him. A chain of circumstances which suddenly places the merciless prosecutor in much the same position as the man who is now on trial for killing his wife. The release of all the major emotions and final soul regeneration when the district attorney finds that his jealous suspicions of his wife have been unfounded. These are the highlights that mark this powerful Universal picture.

Social Security Facts

to pass. The operation of the Social Security Act presents an equally disheartening picture.

In the words of the Social Security Association, "It may be well to recall that the aim and purpose of the Act was not to set up a new method of taxation, to create a new bureaucracy or to furnish jobs to tens of thousands of clerks, but to provide a greater measure of security for the American wage-earners and thereby to enhance the welfare of the nation as a whole. Its sole aim was to relieve the needs of the unemployed, the aged and other dependents."

The American Association for Social Security has an executive staff and board of directors whose interest in efficient operation of the Social Security Act cannot be questioned. Abraham Epstein, one of the nation's outstanding authorities on social security legislation, is executive secretary, and among the directors are John T. Flynn, Monsignor Francis J. Haas, Mary K. Simkhovitch, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and Arthur A. Ballantine, former Under-Secretary of the Treasury.

A review of the Act published by the Association points out that since the employer contributions are generally included in the price of goods, "it means that for every dollar spent in old age insurance payments to increase the purchasing power of the workers, $197 of sorely needed purchasing power were withdrawn from it and spent for other purposes up to March, 1938." The Association points to a close relation between the present depression and the decline in mass purchasing power resulting from the unnecessary funds placed in future reserves. On another point, the Association says that during 1937 the national average of direct relief per person was $23.43 "or almost $8.00 per month more than the average unemployment insurance benefit."

"In view of these disclosures, is there any wonder that despite the unemployment insurance checks the relief rolls throughout the nation in the first quarter of 1938 increased, rather than decreased," the Association report said.

And in discussing the number of workers necessary to operate the Act, the Association said that it took one insurance employee to every 1,000 insured workers in the United States, or five times as many as it takes in Great Britain, bespeaking the cumbersome methods used by the Security Board.

In conclusion, although everyone is agreed that Social Security legislation is necessary, it would appear on a basis of the New Deal Administration's own Treasury statement that the handling of Social Security reserve funds has not been such as to instill confidence, and the operation of the Act, from a standpoint of efficiency, has been comparable to the bungling shown in all such New Deal efforts.

BENEFIT BALL GAME TO BE STAGED TONIGHT

Hulmeville A. A. versus Rohm and Haas—that is the baseball menu for this evening on Landreth's diamond as the two well known clubs of this section battle in a benefit game for George Dougherty, a player in the Bristol Twilight League. Game is scheduled to begin at 6.15 o'clock.

The Hulmeville club will be managed by Howard Black who is also expected to take a fling on the mound. Black promises the fans that he will secure as many of the Hulmeville team as possible and will have Dutch Afterbach as his battery mate for a few innings.

Also in the Hulmeville line-up will be: Eddie Liberatore, Leo Hibbs, Vic Rockhill, Ike Watson, Joe Roe, Henry Morrell, Billy Leigh, Pookie Zeffries, Sid Purcell and Milt Jones.

Manager Andy Pfaffenrath, Rohm and Haas, may use either Eddie Jeffries or Wils Holland on the mound with Johnny Dougherty doing the receiving. The remainder of the line-up will be the same with Locke on first; Ritter, second; Massilla, short; Oppman, third; Brunner, left; W. Ritter, center; and Gallagher, right.

EXHIBIT TROPHIES OF TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The trophies which have been donated to the Bristol Twilight League are on display in the lobby of the Grand Theatre. Four have been donated and they will be presented at the close of the season.

First prize trophy has been donated by the Rohm & Haas Company; second prize by the Checker Stores. A trophy to be given to the leading batter of the circuit has been donated by Louis Spring and the fourth to be given to the leading pitcher was given by Carl Wenzel.

The second game of the playoff series between Rohm and Haas and St. Ann's will be played Saturday afternoon on Landreth's field. The third game will be played Labor Day. Dates for the fourth and fifth games, if necessary have not been set.

St. Ann's is holding a practice session on Grundy's field, Thursday night. Manager John Farrell expects to see all players present on this night.

Movies of Dog Trials Shown For Gun Club

EDGELEY, Aug. 24—The monthly meeting of Edgely Rod & Gun Club was held Monday evening in Headley Manor Fire station with president Horace Walker presiding. The game committee reported there were quite a number of small rabbits in the residential area that are destroying flowers and gardens. This matter was taken up with one of the local game wardens, and he suggests that the only way this can be eliminated at this time, due to the fact that the rabbits are so small, is to place camphor balls in or near plants or flowers that are being destroyed. If this does not prove effective, there is one other remedy that might be applied; soak garlic in water and spray the plant or flower with this solution. It also must be remembered that after a rainstorm this process should be repeated. It was stated.

The fish committee reported that a large number of bass were placed in the canal a short time ago and in the fall the club is expecting another allotment of legal sized bass for the following season. Up to this time there is only one entry in the fish contest the club is holding, that being a pickerel weighing slightly over one pound which was caught by George Bintliff, Jr., Edgely. During the latter part of August and the month of September the club is expecting a large number of entries and the competition will be greater.

The federation committee had nothing to report at this time because the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs is inactive until the September meeting.

The meeting temporarily adjourned so that members and their guests could enjoy moving pictures covering many dog trial events staged in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. James Daniels, Bristol, was instrumental in having these pictures shown. Refreshments were enjoyed. Those serving on this committee consisted of: Joseph King, William Welker and John Wolvin.

A special meeting was called shortly afterwards and final discussions were held pertaining to the fourth annual outing which is to be held September 11th, at Edgely Park. The committees have made plans for the event. This year plans have been made not only for the sportsmen themselves, but for the women and children.

Carl Braddock, Medford, N. J., who is regarded as one of the leading taxidermists in the eastern part of the United States has consented to display his mounted exhibit. The club is expecting a portable additional exhibit from the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Members serving on outing committees are: Tickets, Leo Lynn, Luther Hilgendorff, and Fred Hibbs; trap committee, Samuel Helling, William Welker, Harry Pitman, Joseph King; .22 rifle shot, Peter Mannherz, Alpheus Smyrl, Frank Lynn, Howard Hilgendorff; bait casting, James Turner and Frank Wolfinger; special features committee, George Bintliff, Jr., Joseph Haines, John Wolvin; refreshments, Howard Amole, Nicholas Mannherz, James Daniels, Elwood Britton.

sprouted. Commenting on this, County Agent William F. Greenawalt, Doylestown, said farmers must exercise much care in the feeding of both the wheat and the oats. They should be dried

Mr. Greenawalt said also that the food value of the wheat had not been reduced to a great extent from a viewpoint of the carbohydrates and proteins, but the oil content has been lost due to the sprouting of the germs in the grains. Mr. Greenawalt also cautioned against feeding mouldy wheat and oats to horses and poultry.

Had the weather conditions been favorable, the yield of both wheat and oats would have been very heavy this year. Farmers who succeeded in harvesting their wheat early in the season were more fortunate, but those who had grain in the shock at the time of the rain and those who cut their grain after the rain suffered heavy losses. Shattering of the grain cut late in the season caused a loss of from 15 to 20 per cent.

The harvest of the oats crop was just as difficult as the wheat crop. Many farmers who cut their oats with the reaper and binder found it necessary in many cases to cut open the sheaves in order that the grain might dry. Those who cut it with the moving machine or with the old-fashioned reaper had to turn the grain time after time in order that the moisture might be removed.

In spite of the very adverse conditions, some farmers reported good oats yields. On one farm in the central part of the county the yield was slightly more than 50 bushels to the acre. Normally the oats yield is about 40 bushels to the acre.

Potato and tomato growers also suffered heavy losses as the result of the rain. Many of the potato vines died prematurely and others suffered severely as the result of the blight. Mr. Greenawalt stated that hot and dry weather will prevent the blight from spreading.

The set on the tomato vines is not as heavy as had been expected and many of the tomatoes which did mature on the stalks were badly scalded as the result of the rain followed by intense heat. As a result the tomato yield this year will be below normal. The tomato harvest at present is in full swing and many of the more extensive growers in the county are taking their crops to nearby canneries.

The addition being built to the high school building calls for enlargement of the library, building of locker rooms, and general alterations. In the high school building, the walls and floors throughout the structure have been re-finished. The cafeteria is completely renovated, the colors now being in two tones of green. A new salad and milk cooler has been installed as has also a slicing machine. A small door placed in the cafeteria wall will provide a space to pass dirty dishes through for placement on tea wagons, from where they can readily be wheeled to the kitchen section.

The roof on the Wood street structure has been repaired, and it, together with the cupola repainted. The exterior trim of this and of the Bath, Jefferson and Washington street buildings has been repainted. Fences around all of the school grounds have also been painted, and NYA workers are likewise grading the grounds at the high school and Jefferson avenue properties.

School will tentatively open on Tuesday, September 6th, for registration of beginners. All other pupils are to report on Wednesday, September 7th. Half-sessions will get underway on September 7th, with full sessions commencing on Monday, September 12th.

You may feel sure that your committee has my hearty approval in their efforts to raise these funds, and I am enclosing herewith my contribution, and I am only sorry that it is as small as it is.

Sincerely yours,

Gentlemen:
We consider it a distinct privilege to have a part in your drive for funds to enable the purchase of additional uniforms and equipment for the Cadet Corps.

The Cadet Corps is probably the most outstanding undenominational youth organization that Bristol has known and we feel that Bristolians should give them every possible assistance. You, as the sponsor of the Corps, are to be commended for the work you have done.

We wish you success to attain your goal of $2500.00—and to the Cadets, we wish many victories!

Sincerely yours,
KEYSTONE DAIRY COMPANY.

Dictators NEVER DEFY THEIR PEOPLE-THEY Delude Them

AMERICA CAN learn by watching the death of political freedom in other countries. Dictatorship is won and held not by force and defiance but by trickery and delusion. In every country, the technique has been the same. First, freedom of the press disappears, and the people lose their voice. Second, in the interest of national unity, people are told what to think, what to say, what to do. Third, the subservient press is compelled to release propaganda designed to create unanimous favor for the plans, personalities, and isms of those in power. Through the destruction of a free press, the people become inarticulate. America will always remain a nation of free people as long as the American press remains free. Your newspaper is your partner in the responsibility of perpetuating American liberty. Protect it—support it—for its welfare is your welfare—its freedom is your freedom.
